

Vanguard's Instant of Destruction

United States plans to launch the country's first space satellite yesterday were destroyed in this ball of flame. Huge rocket, right, has just crashed back on its tail and is toppling over, its nose cone knocked askew, as fierce flames engulf the launching pad.—(AP Photofax from U.S. Navy.)

Vanguard Debacle

Diplomats Feel Sickening Thud

'What a Shame!'

Blast Destroys Mighty Rocket

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP) — A Vanguard rocket exploded on its firing pad in the first U.S. attempt to fling a satellite into an orbit yesterday, delaying possibly for weeks U.S. entry into the space race with Russia.

The bottom stage of the three-stage rocket erupted seconds after the firing button was pushed and months of preparation including two long "count-downs" ended in billows of orange flame and failure.

J. Paul Walsh, deputy Vanguard director, told reporters later that the thrust of the third stage failed. Loaded with liquid oxygen, the 72-foot missile toppled eastward and exploded, demolishing the first and second stages.

WILL KEEP ON

Dr. John P. Hagen, chief of the Vanguard project, said in Washington that this "failure of an individual part" of the missile will not prevent the U.S. satellite program from continuing on schedule.

But neither Dr. Hagen nor Walsh made a definite prediction of when the next launching will be attempted. There was speculation that it would be a matter of several weeks. There are two more Vanguard missiles here.

Apparently the satellite itself, a six-inch sphere in the nose of the third stage, was undamaged. It continued transmitting its radio signal after the explosion, he said.

Walsh emphasized two points: The launching attempt had not been pushed too hastily despite Russia's Sputnik, and the main delay in making another attempt will be repairing the launching pad.

"The rocket was ignited and started leaving the pad when suddenly it happened," he said. "We can't tell you exactly what happened but the effect was we got thrust."

"My God, it exploded!" a cameraman cried.

"What a shame," said an aged woman who had stood waiting for hours.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. failure to launch an earth satellite has dealt a new blow to American prestige in the final stage of build-up for the NATO summit conference at Paris. Diplomats wondered whether the incident did not make it more urgent than ever for President Eisenhower to make the Paris trip.

News from Cape Canaveral, Fla., about the rocket failure hit the state department with a kind of sickening thud. It could hardly have occurred under worse circumstances.

NO GREAT LOSS

As officials here see it, the Vanguard failure has no very great significance insofar as the arms race with Russia is concerned.

But from a psychological and political point of view the damage is certainly considerable and could be enormous. It is comparable probably with the injury suffered last October when the first Soviet Sputnik began circling the earth.

One of the reactions to that event was the visit to Washington of Prime Minister Macmillan with a call for restoring Britain's wartime science partnership with the United States.

The result of that was the decision to hold a NATO summit meeting Dec. 16 to 18.

It has been jeopardized by French differences with Britain and the United States over Tunisia. And it has been discounted somewhat in advance by failure of everyone so far to come up with any great new ideas for strengthening the alliance.

Fleming Shares $178,000,000

Income Tax Slashed; Parents Get Extra Aid

Car Dealers Get Help Now

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Donald Fleming Friday night fashioned a $178,000,000 annual tax reduction—most of it in a delayed-action cut in personal and corporation taxes starting next Jan. 1.

He took an immediate slice out of the 10-per-cent excise tax on new automobiles, dropping the levy to 7½ per cent in a move which will cost the federal treasury an estimated $20,000,000 a year.

The biggest benefit announced in the minister's statement—in effect a budget speech although the government said it wouldn't be—goes to individual income taxpayers.

Mr. Fleming spread an annual $86,000,000 tax abatement thinly to help them all by paring the tax rate on the first $2,000 of taxable income.

He gave up another $60,000,000 a year to benefit some 1,750,000 taxpaying parents by boosting the basic exemption for children and other dependents by $100.

Those personal income tax changes, and another $12,000,000 annual reduction in corporation taxes, will affect only 1958 incomes. Taxpayers filing returns early next spring on their 1957 incomes will pay at the old rates.

Those were the only major tax changes, although the minister said he plans to introduce—for consideration at the next session of Parliament—a complete revision of the Succession Duty Act which will boost the basic exemption on estates left to widows and children.

He estimated the tax reductions will cost the treasury $26,000,000 in the current fiscal year.

Surplus $80,000,000

Mr. Fleming forecast he will end this fiscal year next March 31 with an $80,000,000 surplus, compared with the $152,000,000 forecast last March 14 by the then Liberal finance minister Walter Harris.

Revenues of $5,170,000,000, forecast then, would be shrunk by $26,000,000 in tax cuts. The Liberal forecast of $5,018,000,000 in expenditures would be boosted an estimated $46,000,000.

Mr. Fleming said an extra $210,000,000 in outlays incurred by the new Progressive Conservative administration would be partly offset by $64,000,000 in savings and by $100,000,000 in withdrawals from two reserve funds.

Mr. Fleming's statement differed from a full-fledged budget speech in that it did not make a wide variety of other small changes and adjustments. It made only two.

A construction worker living away from a home where he supports a wife or other dependent will not be taxed on living expenses paid by his employer.

The reduction aimed at benefiting all of Canada's 4,500,000 payers of personal income tax will be carried out by a paring of the tax rate on the two lowest ranges of income.

The rate on the first $1,000 of taxable income—the income figure after all exemptions and deductions are counted—will be reduced to 11 per cent from 13. The rate on the second $1,000 will be pared to 14 per cent from 15.

Seventy per cent of all taxpayers have taxable incomes—after all exemptions—of less than $2,000. The change will mean a 15-per-cent cut for those with taxable incomes of less than $1,000 and an 11-per-cent reduction for those with taxable incomes in the $1,000-$2,000 bracket.

The change works out to a flat $30-a-year saving for all with taxable incomes over $2,000.

Help for Parents

A further easing of the personal income load will be carried out by the boosting of personal exemptions that a taxpayer can claim for children and other dependents.

Although the basic exemption of $1,000 for a single person and $2,000 for a married taxpayer is unchanged, the exemption for children receiving family allowance—up to age 16—will be raised to $250 from $150. The exemption for other dependent children and other dependents will go up to $500 from $400.

'God' Loveth a Cheerful Giver'

Scoring the highest total of any day in its two-year history, The Daily Colonist's "500 Christmas Fund" passed $3,900 last night, coming close to $4 for each of the 500 neediest families in this area to spend as they wish at Christmas.

The $737 upsurge was marked by $137.50 as half of the fund's major share of bingo proceeds earlier this week (see further story, list of donors, page 17), two $50 gifts and help from hundreds of city and up-island organizations and individuals.

To the generous public, one donor wrote in a note: "Good luck to your efforts and may they be rewarded by an extra warmth of happiness for you all at Christmas time."

With a $3 contribution was the note, "To make someone's Christmas a little brighter," and another letter said, "Enclosed two dollars. God loveth a cheerful giver."

Donations may be mailed to The 500 Christmas Fund, The Daily Colonist, 2631 Douglas, or taken to the Colonist offices there or downtown at 1215 Broad. Early donations are urged so that an exact division can be made as soon as possible.

Faith in Santa Claus

The miracle of a child's faith in a red nose, flowing white beard and a red snow suit is once again to be seen in downtown stores. Jim Ryan's camera caught the wonderment and awe, and maybe a little fright, when Santa held 15-month-old Heather Salway, 3401 Milgrove, yesterday. For other memorable pictures of kiddies caught off-guard by Jim Ryan, see page 17.

Too Unorthodox

Fleming Method Upsets Opponents

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition members from all parties Friday night rebuked the government for the way in which Finance Minister Fleming presented tax changes.

Mr. Fleming announced the changes in his initial statement opening up for Commons discussion his departmental spending estimates for 1957-58. Instead of a formal budget speech as is normally done.

Mr. Fleming quoted "unchallengeable" parliamentary authorities to back up the procedure but opposition members disagreed.

James Sinclair, Liberal financial critic, described Mr. Fleming's action as "unprecedented."

Stanley Knowles, deputy CCF leader, described the whole thing as out of order.

Social Credit Leader Low said "Parliament has been been flogged."

A bit of a procedural wrangle developed at the close of the night sitting when Mr. Knowles asked whether the tax-change proposals would be debated on Mr. Fleming's estimates or when the House dealt with tax proposals generally.

Mr. Fleming said the tax changes Friday night could not be regarded as a budget and quoted parliamentary authorities to support his choice of procedure. Members would be free to speak as often as they wished on his estimates.

Mickey O'Rourke, VC, Stormy Veteran Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mickey O'Rourke, 82, Dublin-born winemaker, died in the vanguard of a parade to the Victoria Cross, died in the vanguard of a parade to the Victoria Cross, died in the vanguard of a parade to the Victoria Cross.

He won the VC while serving also of the Distinguished Conduct Medal and the Military Medal.

A month after his VC-winning action at Hill 70, he single-handedly wiped out a strongly defended German position at Moquay Farm.

Mickey at first refused to go to last year's celebrations in London for the centenary of the VC. He thought the arrangements were a trick to get him into a mental hospital.

By the time friends had convinced him the offer to take him to London was genuine, all special space had been booked.

"The spalpeens doublecrossed me," said Mickey.

DOCTOR PAID

However, an anonymous Vancouver doctor who lost a leg at Dieppe paid for the air trip and he arrived in England just in time for the celebrations, and a welcome at Buckingham Palace.

"I've met the Queen, I've met the Princess Royal and I've met Sir Anthony Eden," he said. "But never once did I get a glass of Canadian beer."

THE explosion of a French munitions ship in Halifax injured 4,000, rendered 20,000 homeless and did $50,000,000 in damage.

You would think that a blast of that size would make enough noise to shatter every eardrum.

But John Hamilton, 216 Douglas Street, who was in Halifax at 9.15 a.m. Dec. 6, 1917, not far away from the place where the luckless ship Mount Blanc blew sky-high, said he wasn't conscious of any sound.

He was acting quartermaster-sergeant and senior orderly-room clerk in Halifax

First Conscript Killed

No bang was audible, where Mr. Hamilton was. But from the shock wave that had such drastic effects on people and windows and doors (open doors were slammed shut; closed doors were blown open) Mr. Hamilton figured that "the Heinies were dropping little shells on us."

A gaping hole had opened in the wall of the armories. The first of the conscripts had come in just at the time of the explosion. We picked him up at the foot of the stairs, dead.

"We dumped him on some straw. Two weeks later, I

Anchor Sent Flying

Among objects that were sent flying by the explosions was the anchor of the depot ship Niobe. The ship was stationary at the dock, its anchor embedded in solid concrete. Yet the anchor was torn loose, lifted clear to the other side of the town.

Mr. Hamilton's wife, small son and daughter, visiting a place some distance out of the town, made their way back by slowing away on a freight train. Mr. Hamilton found his infant daughter comfortably installed in a cook's bed in a construction camp, sucking milk from a beer bottle which the cook had provided.

His daughter now also lives in Victoria. She is Mrs.

armories, preparing to receive the first conscripts.

"A chap who was my assistant—he had brought me a 26-inch typewriter carriage and I had documents that were 30 inches wide, I was giving him back—and the next thing I noticed was blood running down his face. And the glass in the windows had broken. An orderly-room clerk was lying on the floor kicking his heels—he had a bad heart, and the shock had brought on an attack."

went out to have a drink of rum with another NCO, and we found this man's body. We had forgotten about it."

There was nothing remarkable about mistaking a corpse. In all the carnage, Chebucton school was turned into a morgue, and 750 of the bodies laid out there.

Funny, touching, tragic memories swarm through a survivor's mind. Mr. Hamilton remembers meeting a woman clad in a filmy undergarment, with bare feet, a small child clinging to each hand. He gave her his coat and overshoes.

Jean Chamberlain, 1020 Caledonia.

Good Samaritans in the United States sent generous aid. Three fully-equipped American Red Cross operating rooms, with doctors and nurses, were on the scene by evening.

One of the thousands of buildings hit by the explosion was a certain three-story apartment block, occupied by a great many married women whose husbands were overseas. The building was tipped clean over on its side. Some of the grass widows who survived had red faces, because they were tipped into the open along with visitors who should not have been there.

Picked Drawings By Great Masters Superlative Show

By INA D. D. UHTHOFF

It is exciting to walk into the gallery and see drawings of such superlative quality.

Not only does the collection of "Master Drawings of Four Centuries" contain many of the world's great names, but each example has been chosen as being worthy to represent the artist.

The officials of the National Gallery of Canada have circulated a collection of a quality which has never before been shown here in one group.

From the Italian school of the 16th century, to Paul Klee, Picasso and Rouault, the range is European with the French school predominating, with works by Corot, Bonnard, Toulouse-Lautrec, Renoir and Gauguin.

Britons Represented

British drawing is represented by Augustus John's "Woman Standing" and, of early vintage, by sketches by Cozens and Gainsborough.

There is some Canadian work included, a lithograph by Harold Town and an etching with aquatint by Albert Dumouchel, both interesting pieces in the contemporary idiom.

At first glance, the drawings by John Korner, the well-known Vancouver painter, are not impressive, but the more closely one studies them, the more they have to offer. The line-dances and swings, it is full of vigor, it picks up a rhythm here, an accent there.

Many of the drawings are notes in pencil or ink or a not altogether happy combination of both.

One feels that quite a few of them could have been omitted, thus strengthening the impact of the collection as a whole. Sometimes the use of smudged, in wash in combination with pen line is successful. At others, the emphasis on the wash areas is so strong that it stifles the pen line.

Socreds May Move To Forbid Bigotry

VANCOUVER — President Noel Murphy of the British Columbia Social Credit League said Friday an amendment to the league's constitution to bar racial or religious bigotry may be considered next year. He said he would consider referring the matter to the next meeting of the league's board of directors. The Alberta Social Credit League requires members "to oppose any attempt to spread or implant the seeds of racial discrimination, class hatred or religious prejudice."

VANCOUVER — America may become a colonial state under Russia in 50 years, says Dean Gordon Shrum, head of the UBC physics department. "When you read ancient history, you see civilizations rise and fall," he said. "We should read history more often. We could, if we wanted to make the sacrifices, compete with the Russians, but I wonder if we want to make the sacrifices."

'Take Over Pipeline Or Betray People'

M. J. COLDWELL
"... piratical"

CCF Leader Blasts 'Changes of Policy'

OTTAWA (BUP)—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell last night urged the government to hand over the Trans-Canada Pipeline to the public immediately—or be guilty of the "greatest betrayal of the Canadian people since Confederation."

In a CBC network broadcast Mr. Coldwell lashed out at the Conservatives for changing policies as soon as they were installed on the government side of the house.

When in opposition, he said, present government ministers called private handling of the pipeline a "betrayal of the people"—but they have not restored the utility to the people.

"The Conservatives called it 'an infamous proposal'—an infamous proposal that the government is continuing to endorse," Mr. Coldwell said.

"Mr. Diefenbaker referred to it as a 'nefarious scheme'—yet it is that nefarious scheme that he is putting into effect."

"He described the promoters as 'buccaneers'—yet these buccaneers are continuing to reap their piratical profits."

EXPECTED

"The people of Canada," Mr. Coldwell went on, "expected that a Conservative government would relieve these pipeline buccaneers of the opportunity of making further millions at the public expense, but again this has not been done."

HUGE GAINS

He said that in the last few years the capital gains of pipeline companies in Canada have totalled more than $600,000,000.

He quoted the example of one investor—"an insider in the company"—who had purchased 155,000 shares at five cents each while the same stock was being offered to the public at $5 a share.

"These cost him about $7,700 and for that he acquired an equity of over $4,000,000—a fantastic and amazing figure," Mr. Coldwell said.

Sheik Suleiman Al Huzail, Tayyah Bedouin chief, it has been disclosed, proposed to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt some two years ago. He wanted her to be his 40th bride. Mrs. Roosevelt's son, James, learned of the proposal on a tour of the Midwest. Mrs. Roosevelt, in her refusal, asked him to come in America as her guest at her expense.

Verdict Urges Light Colors For Cyclists

Light-colored clothing for bicyclists, or some type of light-reflecting badge for their clothing, was recommended yesterday by a coroner's jury in Victoria.

The recommendation was included in a verdict of accidental death returned on a fatal collision early Tuesday in which David Clarke, 19, lost his life on the Patricia Bay Highway.

DARK COAT

The youth was wearing a dark coat while riding his bicycle on the highway in the dark.

"We would like to suggest," said jury foreman Frank Grimshaw, "that all bicycle riders be obliged to wear distinctive clothing in the dark, or some light marker, especially in such rural districts as Central Saanich."

"The newspapers," he went on, "might insist that all their delivery boys wear such attire."

HEAD INJURIES

Dr. John Silveira, an internist at St. Joseph's Hospital, told the jury David Clarke was dead when he examined him at the hospital at about 7:30 a.m. He had severe head injuries.

Albert Edward Hornby, 3914 Prestwood, told the jury he was driving his car out from town early Tuesday on his way to work at James Island. With him were five other men.

"It was dark, wet and miserable," he said, and there was quite a bit of traffic inbound.

HEADLIGHTS BLAZING

"One car passed us on its way south, then another, then a third. Headlights of the third car were blazing in my eyes."

"Just as it passed, the boy was right there in front of the right side of the car. As I tried to swerve to the left, there was a thump, and I stopped."

"The boy was lying by the side of the road. His bicycle was a few feet away."

Mr. Hornby said he was driving approximately 45 miles an hour and that the road was wet, but he did not skid.

SAW LITTLE

Ernest Stoyles, 1319 Gladstone, who was sitting in the middle of the front seat, said he could see little through the wet windshield.

He did catch a glimpse of something to his right, and at the same time felt a bump.

Like Mr. Hornby, he saw no sign of a bicycle light.

Alec Baines, 3916 Cedar Hill Crossroad, on the right side of the back seat, said he had a clear view of the road ahead.

SUDDENLY THERE

"As I saw it," he said, "the road was clear—then suddenly the boy was there."

Chief Constable Fred Brownlee of Central Saanich said that at the accident scene a slight curve put headlights of southbound cars directly in the path of northbound vehicles.

Defence Is Essential

DIRECT intimation by Defence Minister Peakes that Canada will not be able to reduce its defence budget in the coming fiscal year and that in forward years the cost may rise will have a sobering effect on the nation. Defence outlays, now at $1,722,000,000, comprise approximately one-third of all federal spending. While they will not increase this year, the effect of a number of savings made since last June when the new administration took over has already been absorbed by salary increases among defence personnel. Up to here the hope had been that the defence budget could be shaded a little, but now that will have to be written off.

With the world in its present state, there can be no denying the weight of the task borne by the defence minister. He has the responsibility for insuring that the nation will keep up its guard in an upset time, that it will co-ordinate its plans with its Allies, and keep abreast of the swift march of science and technology into ever newer fields. Nor in the nature of things are the monetary costs of this effort likely to recede in the immediate future. High speed airplanes now cost a fortune. Radar warning systems may change overnight. Electronics is a part of nearly everything, while costs mount in astronomical fashion compared with even a decade ago.

While something of the same situation is facing every nation in the West for the same reasons, the heavy drain on national assets imposed by defence outlays is unfortunate for Canada in that if cuts cannot be made in the defence budget it is difficult to see where else they might come. The social services of the country, the direct call of the Provinces for more assistance from the federal treasury, the very real demands on municipalities with bulging populations, and the thousand and one things inherent in Canada's fast growing development all have their effect on the remaining two-thirds of the federal budget.

Superimposed on that is Canada's external trade position, one wherein the balance of trade is setting heavily against this country at the present time. While none of these factors point to significant tax reduction, it is a gain for Canadians to know where the country stands. Mr. Peakes pulled no punches in his replies in Parliament. The administration will certainly have the support of the nation behind it in whatever is necessary to insure that Canada's defences are kept abreast of the needs in these difficult times.

Picketing for Spite

PICKETING is a concomitant of strikes in this country recognized by statute within certain limitations—frequently exceeded in practice. But picketing such as is being employed in the pulp and paper strike which has closed the mills of B.C. for three weeks is beyond comprehension from the viewpoint of the much-touted principle of trade union solidarity.

Whatever the merits of their case against management of the pulp mills may be, the striking union surely can have nothing against the construction workers. Apparently out of pique against the employers, however, the strikers' union is now picketing the construction projects, with the result that about 1,000 men not even remotely connected with the dispute are put out of work and their families will have to get along on slender rations until a "brother" union decides to remove the pickets. This is hardship which has not been accepted without protest by some of those picketed off the payroll, for no one knows better than the construction workers that this is no time for them to be idle for causes which are not their direct concern.

The union's action is not only arrogant but also inconsistent. Earlier it permitted work to proceed on construction jobs started before the strike began, picketing only subsequent projects. This week it withdrew that concession for no apparent reason other than that it was displeased with management's attitude towards a renewal of negotiations. Out of what looks very much like spite, therefore, the unfortunate construction workers are rendered temporarily jobless.

There is the further thought, which does not appear to have occurred to the union, that this halting of construction is detrimental to the future interests of its own members. It may be taken for granted that construction employing 1,000 men ultimately would create a great many new jobs. Delay in building, therefore, merely serves to postpone expansion of employment, which one has always been given to believe is a primary objective of organized labor. The old saw about cutting off one's nose to spite one's face seems to fit this case perfectly.

All Together This Time

THE local municipal elections are now but five days away and it may not be amiss to remind electors of Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt that this year they vote on the same day as those of Victoria City. In former years these municipalities followed the city two days later, and habit being hard to shake off some unthinking voters could lose their votes if they do not take note of the change.

This comes about because of the alteration in the Municipal Act at the last session of the Legislature, which brought all four municipal election dates into line. It is on Thursday next therefore that voters of the Greater Victoria district will go to the polls in unison. The polling hours differ slightly in the city from those in the adjacent municipalities but these have been publicized and should cause no confusion.

We regret that in the city no effort has been made to split the polling stations, and that as in former years all city voters will cast their ballots at the Public Market Building. Undoubtedly this makes for uniformity and ease of counting but inevitably it means inconvenience for the voters, who must all travel into the heart of the city. The custom in federal and provincial elections, of setting up multiple stations not too far apart, has much to commend it.

One hopes for a large turnout of voters in all four municipalities, although perhaps without too much confidence. It is unfortunately the fact that at municipal elections only a minority of citizens take the trouble to exercise their franchise, although presumably they would howl were it taken away from them. That this is so is all the more reason that they should make a point of casting their votes.

Amalgamation Studied

A Moral Obligation

IN seeking a solution to the metropolitan problems of the capital region, four distinct approaches merit some consideration. First, the number of inter-municipal boards or inter-municipal agreements could be augmented and, in some instances, the territorial jurisdiction of these agencies or agreements might be extended. A second alternative would be to establish, for certain defined purposes, a metropolitan federation of the existing organized municipalities. A third possibility would be an extension of the area, either by amalgamation or annexation, coming under one local government.

With either a metropolitan federation or a metropolitan-wide unification, it would be possible and might well be necessary to institute a limited system of controls for specific purposes beyond the area encompassed by the new metropolitan unit. The fourth and final alternative is to leave the present pattern of local government and inter-municipal arrangements undisturbed.

A recommendation that the existing pattern of local government in the Victoria metropolitan area be allowed to continue, in the Institute's considered opinion, could not be effectively sustained or supported. Any one of the first three alternatives afford the possibility, we would suggest, of a more constructive and potentially more efficient system of government than the citizens of the area are currently enjoying.

While a number of municipal services are already being operated on an area-wide basis, divided jurisdiction suffers from the basic weakness that it fails to guarantee a metropolitan-wide approach even where the need may be obvious and pressing. Our analysis of services in the Victoria region provides a number of illustrations. The case for metropolitan-wide planning, implementation and land-use control and for metropolitan park development has already been effectively set out in "The Capital Region Takes Stock," a report prepared for the Capital Region Planning Board in October, 1954. Planning and parks are the most obvious but by no means the only possible examples.

An equally significant drawback of the present governmental structure is that the residents of the organized municipalities and the unorganized areas make decidedly uneven financial contributions in relation to their equal responsibility for those municipal services which are of area-wide importance.

In the final analysis, the inhabitants of the metropolitan area have a common and equal interest in the policies adopted by local government to foster and channel future growth in that area. Their contributions to the necessary municipal undertakings should be in relation to financial capacity rather than residence within artificial boundary lines which are long since outdated. Does a home-owner who lives on one side of a street in Saanich have any greater interest in or ultimate responsibility for the municipal costs of urban development in the centre of the District than his neighbour who happens to live across the street in the District of Oak Bay? The answer is surely obvious. A pooling of financial resources on a metropolitan basis is more than a desirable and practical objective. It is a moral obligation.

Time for better heads

Ripple Rock

By FRANK KELLEY

IN and out of Victoria for almost seventy years, using coast steamships to get hither and yon at times, one could hardly ignore what many old-timers had to say about Seymour Narrows and its Ripple Rock hazard. The rock, while a menace to navigation under certain tidal conditions, also became the hope of Islanders when railway engineers stated it could be used as the foundation for a suspension bridge which would mean the fulfillment of the pledge made by federal government leaders when the creation of a "Dominion from sea to sea" was the aim of some great Canadians to achieve as the price of a transcontinental railroad that would have its western terminus on Vancouver Island. Naturally this made the bridge factor, politically as well as economically, important to Vancouver Islanders.

That bridge, the only way that a train could traverse the Dominion and haul its traffic to the Esquimalt terminal, became of topmost importance to Island residents, promising with the arrival of transcontinental traffic, sea terminals on the west coast. Enterprising Victorians accepted the idea in good faith until it was finally decided to locate the western terminus elsewhere. Then came an attitude of resentment that existed for many years and was instrumental in creating animosity, as long as the removal of the rock was demanded by mainland interests.

Additional zeal concerning the rock followed the promotion of another railway project that would link mainland and Island by way of a bridge across Seymour Narrows. That was a proposal of R. P. Rithet and associates, evidences of whose intent were visible for some time hereabouts. Old-timers should remember when the site for a fine hotel was being excavated at the corner of Government and Wharf Streets, to be named the British Pacific; and while the work progressed interest was added to the argument for rail connection and the rock's retention, but it also spurred the agitation for its removal, weird stories of shipwreck and loss of life being stressed to further the effort.

Last public protests against the rock's removal occurred here in the 1930's, when some fiery talk was indulged in at mass meetings by men like R. T. Williams, old-time Victorian, who was an ardent advocate of establishing the terminus of a transcontinental railway at or near the originally-selected site.

It was while this issue was very much alive, I remember quizzing some skippers of steamers operating on the coast what they honestly thought of attempts to do away with Ripple Rock.

The answer generally was that it would be a good thing, as it was dangerous for chance-taking skippers who might risk their ships, as some had done, when missing favorable tide connections and overlooking instructions of the pilotage authority. One U.S. government ship had been a total loss because of hurry, and several Canadian coasting vessels damaged through tidal and eddy risks, including a hydrographic survey ship. At the same time fears were expressed that the aftermath might still be detrimental to the passage of shipping following the explosion of powder, which could create bottom hazards, though they frankly hoped that would not result. Here is hoping along the same lines as the skippers who were quizzed that the future of the freighter in Seymour Narrows will be more secure.

Reports from Ottawa

THE Senate's special inquiry into land use, which got under way last January amid blessings from Prime Minister St. Laurent and high hopes of a new deal for eastern farmers, is still alive. But barely.

The Senate reformed its land use committee this session and kept Liberal Senator Chubb by Power as its chairman. But Power doesn't know where the inquiry is going—if anywhere.

"I've had no instructions, no discussions with anybody," Power told me. "The committee was ordered to sit, and we're sitting."

Power might well have added, "and we're stalling," for that is what the committee is doing. It is waiting for some indication from the new government as to whether the government wants it to do a thorough job, and is willing to provide the money that would require. Power does not expect a decision until the next session of Parliament, when presumably the political uncertainty resulting from the present stalemate in the Commons will have ended.

Until then the committee is carrying on perfunctorily, hearing unimportant witnesses, looking at maps and other documents, and wondering if the real reason it still exists is that the government doesn't want to take the responsibility for washing it out.

It takes capital to buy more or better land, to improve land and to mechanize operations. Almost invariably if a farmer hasn't the capital, neither has he the collateral necessary to get a loan from the bank. The result is that poor farmers tend to become poorer.

It was in the light of these conditions that the Senate, under prompting from St. Laurent, launched a three-year inquiry to produce recommendations for government action to improve the economic position of eastern farmers. But so far as Sen. Power is concerned, the Senate has bitten off more than it can chew. No simple Senate committee, he now believes, can do a proper job on a subject so vast and complex. So he wants authority to re-organize the inquiry along the lines of a royal commission, with a full-blown secretariat of administrative technical and legal experts.

He also wants to keep the probe going between parliamentary sessions, and to assign specific aspects to sub-committees which would make first-hand, on-the-spot investigations. All of this would cost money, and the only source is the government.

"When the political situation is clarified," Power said, "the government will have to decide if it wants a thorough investigation, or only the kind we've started and an innocuous report."

However, there's a pretty fair possibility that Prime Minister Diefenbaker may conclude his government doesn't need an exhaustive and costly inquiry in advance of doing something about the situation. For example, in the election he promised the Tories would provide:

Assistance for small farmers, to help them increase the size and efficiency of their farms;

Extended and easier farm credit;

A national program of soil and water conservation.

These promises encompass the very heart of the Senate inquiry.

The Packsack

In Field and Forest

By GREGORY CLARK

WHEN a man named Roger Tory Peterson writes anything, draws anything, or says anything, an extraordinary audience all over America from Mexico to Alaska—amounting, it is said, to over 3,000,000—stops, looks and listens.

Peterson has been called the 20th century Audubon. His career started with a bang back in 1934 when he published a small pocket-size manual called the Field Guide to the Birds. It was revolutionary. Peterson, who can write like a poet and a front page feature reporter, can also draw like a Norman Rockwell. But in that first manual, he drew like an architect.

The birds he presented in the manual were mere patterns of color and shape. But for the first time, people interested in wild nature were able to identify, from those patterns, the birds they saw in garden, field and forest. I would say that the enormous growth of the so-called bird watching fraternity in America, from a few thousand to several million since 1934, has been due as much to Roger Tory Peterson as to the birds themselves.

He has since become a sort of John the Baptist of a spiritual and aesthetic revival of interest in wild life as related to human life; has published and edited a whole series of manuals; written several books so full of escape and therapy for the modern bewildered mind that the medical profession is prescribing them.

Now, in time for this Christmas, Peterson has collected a large Santa Claus type book, "The Bird Watcher's Anthology," consisting of 85 pieces which are, in his opinion, the finest writing of Burroughs, Huxley, Kleban, Peattie, Teale, Beebe, Hudson, Audubon, Darwin, Sutton, Thoreau and all the others who have ever been inspired by the sight or sound of wild birds, and who passed that inspiration on to Peterson. And Peterson passes it on to us. To each selection, Peterson has attached his own foreword or comment. And with each selection is a drawing from his superb pencil or brush.

It is a wonder somebody has not done this four or five years ago, in response to the swelling multitude of outdoorsmen and women and the liveliest interest in wild nature. Thank heaven it was left to Peterson to do. The book is a testament.

On the Record

Not Brains But Will

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

IT would be an error to believe that Russia's sputniks and what they imply in military terms indicate Russian scientific and technological superiority to West. They are deeply disturbing because they upset the previous blithe confidence in Russia's certain and continuing inferiority, the more so because these advances have been made despite radical political crises in Russia—the death of Stalin and his subsequent down grading and a series of purges that have occurred since then.

Scientific achievements as imposing as this one are not accomplished overnight. They require long, uninterrupted, synchronized team work. This, through various shifts of policy, must have been continuous, indicating a greater stability than we have been led to believe. That again challenges the optimistic conviction that societies of free men will always survive and surpass tyrannies, whether in war or in competition without overt war.

Little justification for this view can be found in history. Societies of self-governing freemen have existed since antique times, but repeatedly they have been supplanted by external or internal tyrannies through their eventual incapacity to maintain coherence.

A feature in this has been the rise of the masses and the domination of their ever-unassuaged appetites, to which legislators and other representative leaders toady to the point where they can no longer reverse the trend and successfully call forth national discipline, self-sacrifice, or austerity. Then governments resting upon decisions reached by free consent are overturned by generals leading disciplined armies, or by popular demagogues who woo the masses only to obtain the power to suppress them. This is not only a modern phenomenon. A brilliant account of such evolutions can be found in Aristotle.

Russia has made a demonstration of the capacity of a tyrannous regime to put first things first and to concentrate on certain achievements at whatever cost to the masses. Russia has taken the cold war seriously, and subjected all other interests to the determination to win it. This has lain behind the internal debate regarding the priority of capital goods over consumer goods.

Such concentrations have happened in free societies during fighting wars, which always call forth temporary dictatorships, however veiled. When Winston Churchill took the helm in Britain in a moment of fateful military danger, he appointed Lord Beaverbrook to create a superior British air force at whatever cost, for without such an air force Britain could not survive. Beaverbrook raided all the other armed services, dictated to industries, and created that force of which Churchill was later to say, "never in the history of human conflict have so many owed so much to so few."

Russian leaders have recognized that the definite military and political weapon with which to win the cold war has been the production of the intercontinental guided ballistic missile, and to have at least a temporary monopoly of it. Whether they have it or not, they are admittedly nearer than we. But they have reached this point not because of their superiority in scientific brains but because they have concentrated them at one point.

Now we hear it said, "democracies just can't do things that way." But whether they do it "that way" or some other way, they must find some way of mobilizing self-sabotaging effort if they are to survive.

Little attempt has been made to do this. President Eisenhower in his two speeches to the nation recently did nothing to prepare our people for a harder life than they presently enjoy. We have treated the cold war as a rather pleasurable and riskless enterprise, good for business if not overdone, conducted largely by super-public relations fellows extolling the advantages of being an American, and demonstrating our riches abroad.

We have failed to grasp two fundamentals of foreign policy: that if you are out to defeat an opponent with or without war, it is better to over-estimate than under-estimate him and to concentrate everything on the effort. Or if you want peace on the basis of mutual accommodation, seek it the moment you are the stronger.

Our leadership has done neither. And the failure is not a failure of scientific brains, but of political intelligence and concentrated will.

Pulp Workers

Strikers Ask Mediation

Injunction Forbids Interference

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice A. M. Manson Thursday issued an injunction against interference by striking pulp and paper workers with construction of a mill at Port Alice, in north-central Vancouver Island.

The injunction will remain in effect until hearing of an action brought against the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, Local 514, by Cerro Construction Ltd. and Industrial Piping and Controls Ltd.

The building companies claim pickets have blocked construction workers, and the obstruction costs them $3,450 a day.

Striking B.C. pulp and paper workers yesterday asked the provincial cabinet to mediate in the present strike against six pulp and paper companies.

The request was made on behalf of the 6,000 strikers by B.C. Federation of Labor leaders who presented their annual brief to the cabinet yesterday.

There was no immediate reaction to the request.

The brief presented to the cabinet dealt only with resolutions passed at the recent convention of the federation at Vancouver.

The labor leaders asked for government action on the growing problem of unemployment and said plans should be implemented immediately to provide work for unemployed this winter.

A further meeting with the cabinet on the subject of unemployment will be sought shortly.

'Horrible Disclosures'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lawyer Alfred Bull, counsel for Charles D. Schultz in the Sommers bribery conspiracy case, said Friday it would be almost impossible to get a fair trial by a jury because of the "horrible disclosures" made by the newspapers in the last two years.

He was appearing in another brief police court hearing of the case, in which former B.C. Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers, three forest companies and representatives of the three companies are charged with conspiracy to bribe Sommers.

IN JANUARY

The defendants were remanded to Dec. 17 and prosecutor Stewart McMorran said he expected to start the Crown case by Jan. 15.

Mr. Bull told Magistrate Oscar Orr: "This is a case where we are permitted to elect trial before you."

"It is a possibility. I don't witness in the Sommers case is a matter 'squarely in the hands of the city prosecutor of Vancouver,'" Attorney-General Robert Bonner said in Victoria. "He is free to pay expenses if he wishes. It is done all the time. It is nothing unusual."

He was commenting on a report that Los Angeles accountant Charles Eversfield — chief witness for the prosecution — is losing $362 a week because he volunteered to testify in the case.

"They have made the most horrible disclosures. It is almost indecent what they have done," Payment of expenses of a key case.

Labor, Parents Hail Tax Cuts

Labor leaders and parents in Victoria last night cheered the reductions in personal income tax announced by Finance Minister Donald Fleming.

Speaking on the announcement that room, board and transportation allowances to workers on away-from-home construction sites are to be tax-free, James Moffat, president of the Vancouver Island Building Trades Council, said, "That has been long overdue. It has been a sore point with union members for a long time."

KEEPS TWO HOMES

"There are many times," Mr. Moffat continued, "when a man has to leave his home town to find work. He is keeping two homes going. That is quite a heavy load. He should be allowed something."

"That is the best damn thing they ever did in their lives," said Donald S. Bushell, business agent for painters and plasterers' locals here. "These guys must be trying to get in pretty hard."

PRESENT RATE

Construction workers are now taxed on $1.25 of their allowance for room and board, he said.

Pledrivers, for instance, are paid $3.50 a day for room and board when working away from home, and of this, $1.25 a day was taxable, he noted.

The pledrivers' local has fought to have the taxable portion reduced, Mr. Bushell said. At one time the whole allowance was taxable. In 1956, the taxable amount was dropped from $1.50 to $1.25.

LOGGERS NOT COVERED

Mr. Bushell pointed out that expenses of travelling businessmen, including room and board, have been tax free for years. "It is unfortunate it doesn't cover loggers," said Jack McKenzie, president of Local 1118 IWA. "A great number of them maintain two homes, especially in other locals."

STEP IN RIGHT WAY

"It is a step in the right direction, though," he said. Provincial CCF leader Robert Strachan, said the government's next step should be to see that "there will be sufficient construction jobs next year to insure that workers will be able to pay even ordinary income tax."

"I would also urge the provincial government to do their bit to see that provincial works projects are started immediately," he said.

SOUNDS WONDERFUL

The increase of $100 in the exemption for dependents, effective Jan. 1, 1958, brought a reaction of "That sounds wonderful," from Mrs. George Gower, 121 Linden, mother of four children.

"My children are just getting to the expensive stage," she said. Her eldest child entered school this year.

"SUITS ME FINE"

Mrs. George Boadet, 1415 Gladstone, also mother of four children, said of the increase:

"That suits me fine. People with children can do with a lot of help these days. It is a terrible struggle to make ends meet these days with things so high."

"That is very splendid," said David R. Monk, 1385 Hampshire, father of two youngsters.

PLUMMETING DOLLAR

Providing children with food, clothes and shoes today takes a greater portion of the parents' income than it used to, he said.

Since the dollar has "plummeted" in value, the raise in the exemption makes it more realistic, Mr. Monk said. He is a civil servant.

Mr. Strachan said of the exemption increase, "Thank God for the little mercies—even from a Tory government."

Opposition Leaders Attack

'Unheard of Method'

OTTAWA (CP)—James Sinclair Friday night described Finance Minister Fleming's method of presenting tax changes as "unprecedented since Confederation."

Mr. Sinclair said this was done despite press statements quoting Mr. Fleming that there would be a "fall budget."

He said a reading of Canadian and British history would show that the new government had done something unprecedented in two ways.

It had refused to bring down a budget. It had introduced tax changes in a way which prevented the opposition from amending the proposals.

Widows and Children Given Break

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming Friday night proposed that all estates be given basic exemption from succession duties of $50,000 with higher exemptions for estates going to widows with children under 21.

His proposal was part of a plan which he said will be started at this session of Parliament but not completed until a later session.

At present no federal duty is payable on estates of less than $50,000. But once that figure is passed the duty is levied on the full amount of the estate with the provision that the amount of tax cannot exceed the difference between $50,000 and the total value of the estate.

Mr. Fleming estimated that adoption of his plan would cost the treasury between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000. It would mean tax reductions on all estates, and on the average estate would mean a 70 per cent reduction on taxation.

Mr. Fleming said this was done despite press statements quoting Mr. Fleming that there would be a "fall budget."

New Tax Examples Given

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian taxpayers will not get the benefit of Finance Minister Fleming's personal income tax cuts until Jan. 1, 1958.

This is how the tax for 1957 and 1958 works out for persons who are single, married with no dependents and married with two children:

Heritiere Bought by Alberta Ranches

NEWMARKET, England for 20 to 1 down to near (CP) — Heritiere, a top-class favorite, but ran second in a British thoroughbred, has been acquired by a Canadian turf syndicate.

The Anglo-Irish Bloodstock Agency, acting on behalf of Alberta Ranches, paid $8,000 guineas for the three-year-old filly at the Newmarket sales this week.

Heritiere, by Rockafella out of Star of France, is a middle distance performer of class and consistency. She was the medium of a big betting gamble in the Cambridge Handicap here last October, being backed successfully, for Counsel, a hard-hitting handicapper, ultimately sold for 5,000 guineas, and the Mare Chocoma, sold at 8,400 guineas.

Rides on behalf of Alberta Ranches also were made, unsuccessfully, for Counsel, a hard-hitting handicapper, ultimately sold for 5,000 guineas, and the Mare Chocoma, sold at 8,400 guineas.

FRANCE TO GET Sahara Oil
PARIS (UP) — Petroleum from the potentially vast oil fields of the Sahara Desert may start flowing into France early next year.
French prospectors in the Sahara hope within the next week to start pumping oil from the Hassi Messaoud field. The oil will be shipped in tankers to refineries at Marseilles, bringing one step closer France's dream of eventually developing the Sahara as its prime oil source.

Bowling Roundup

Tenpin Scores Week's Feature

By JIM TAYLOR

City 10-pin bowlers have apparently shaken off the low-scoring hex that has been dogging most of the leagues this season.

Score sheets show that the week's bowling was one of the most consistently high of the season, especially at Gibson's Bowladrome, where three trundlers broke 600.

Nick Howard came through with a sparkling 627 series in the senior league at Gibson's, with single games of 203, 212 and 212. Wilbur Webb got back to his old form in the commercial league with 624 (229, 214, 201), and another commercial league bowler, George Gunniss, hit 603 with single games of 212 and 219.

Bill Coates was next in line in the senior league with 580 (220), followed by Len Murrant, 563 (209); Bill Holmes, 552 (225); George Motion, 544 (222); Nip Sage and Wally Noonan, 542, and Jack Fletcher, 540.

Webb also paced the Friday mixed league with 577 (215), while Eddie Borde was high man in the Colonial Nite-Side League with 579. Len Murrant and Jack Hobby, each with 534, were the best in the Thursday mixed league at Gibson's.

Other high scorers in the commercial league were B. Robertson, 575 (210); Chuck Bennett, 560; Hobby, 554 (206); F. McLement 538 (228); Dick Bowles, 541; Bill Templeton, 534 (201), and Gil Wong, 548 (201).

As clothes are supposed to make the man, maybe equipment makes the bowler.

Peg Trickett bought a 10-pound ball two weeks ago and led the mixed 10-pin league at Gibson's last week with 550. This week she checked in with 505 to top the women's league.

Wilf Smith rolled a 566 (235) and Dick Donaldson, 566 (200) in the senior league to tie for 10-pin honors at Strathcona Bowling Alleys.

Ed Stefanek, 563 (206); Roy Harris, 542; Harold Paulding, 539, and Herb Chandler, 530 (211), were the other top series bowlers in the senior league. Andy Nelson had 216 and John Roper, 206.

In commercial league action, Bill Hitchin, Sr., had 554 (230), followed by Lorne Elves, 550 (204); H. Kirkner, 541 (208); Charlie Ferguson, 538, and Vince Wheatley, 521 (212).

Geoff Worrall and Georgie Adams finished one-two at Esquimalt Bowladrome to pace city fivepin action for the week. Worrall rolled 865, with a 361 single, and Adams had 859 with a game of 312.

Three other bowlers broke 800, both in the commercial league at Gibson's. Stan Bell had a fine 833 series, with games of 326 and 311, while Reg Waggoner had 819 and D. Corbett hit for 804 (308, 310). MacLean flirted with the elusive 800 at Strathcona, as he rolled 796 with a 348 game.

A total of 24 over-700 scores were rolled at Esquimalt. Ken Fry followed Adams with 791 and was followed in turn by Al Majorki, 787; Vern Fillman, 757; Ben Price, 740; G. Roskamp, 736 and 741; John Middlemass, 731 and 779; Tony Bishop, 728 and 774 (311); E. Liska, 727; Phil Young, 720; Howie Butler, 719; Stan Bell, 718; Alec Spiers, 713; G. Kirker, 712; Andy Foley, 710; H. McWhirter, 707, and Doug Crawford, 702.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith rolled 1,416 for three games Sunday to take first prize in Gibson's "Mr. and Mrs." fivepin tourney.

Stan Bell led the fivepinners at Capital City Bowladrome with 791 (305). D. Miller followed with 777 (305); Sam Smitherman was next with 734; N. Wylie, 723; G. Wagg, 712; Cliff Michaels, 705; Seto Sun Ho, 716; Doug Knight, 703, and Dick Harrison, 701.

At Gibson's, C. McRae came within two pins of 800 with a 798. Other high fivepinners were H. Quissey, 773; R. Vater, 724 (380); C. Waters, 717; R. Jago, 704; Ken Smith, 747; Howie Butler, 719; R. Bird, 705; Larry Griffen, 705; Cy Wallis, 744 (308); K. Brock, 775 (324); E. Newman, 704; May Wallis, 796, and Elwood Smith, 708.

Selects Romp, 10-1 Over Junior Team

OTTAWA (CP)—Moscow Selects gave Ottawa-Hull Junior Canadiens a lesson in hockey Friday night in the wind-up game of a successful eight-game exhibition series in Canada.

The fast-skating, superbly conditioned Selects had little trouble downing the bolstered Ottawa-Hull club, 10-1, before a sellout crowd of 6,500 at the Ottawa Auditorium.

The visitors ended the tour of Eastern Canada with a record of five wins, two losses and a tie against Ontario Hockey Association senior A teams and the Junior Canadiens.

THE RECORD
It was the second win for the Selects over the Junior Canadiens. They came out on top, 6-3, in Montreal last Sunday. The visitors also defeated Sudbury Wolves, 7-4 North Bay Trappers 6-3 and Kingston CKLC's, 4-2.

Whitby Dunlops, who will represent Canada at the world amateur hockey championships early next year, defeated the Selects, 7-2, and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, who lost, 2-0, to the Russians in the last world competition, also won, by a 4-2 count. Windsor Bulldogs held the Selects to a 5-5 draw.

The Selects broke into a 4-0 first-period lead, were held to a single marker in the middle stanza but erupted for five more against the disorganized Ottawa-Hull club in the final period.

Alexander Cherepanov of the Selects scored two goals. Single markers went to Yuri Pantyukhov, Alexei Guryshov, Valentin Bystrov, Nikolai Solugubov, Konstantin Loktev, Ivan Tregubov, Veniamin Alexandrov and Yuri Kopylov.

Jack McMaster, one of five Toronto Marlboro junior players lent to the Ottawa club, scored the only goal for the losers early in the final 20 minutes.

The Selects controlled play through most of the contest. Canadiens were unlucky on numerous occasions, hitting the post at least a half dozen times when they had Moscow goalie Yvgeni Erkin beaten.

Referee Charlie Deziel and Alex Barilko of Montreal handed out 19 penalties, 11 to the visitors. The penalty total was the highest of the tour, surpassing by four the number handed out in the Selects' game against Kingston.

More than 1,000,000 persons attend evening schools in Britain, in a multitude of courses.

Weather Worries For All-Star Game

MONTREAL — The weather loomed as the all-important question here this morning as the top football players in Canada prepared to take the field for the annual East-West Shrine game.

A wet snowfall has left half an inch of snow on the McGill University Stadium turf. Mild weather is expected, with maximum temperature of 35 degrees, and if the mildness becomes too pronounced, the field will become sloppy.

Although both coaches professed that the weather will make no great difference to their team, Shrine officials are worrying about attendance. Proceeds of the game go to Shrine hospitals in Montreal and Winnipeg.

Both Jim Trimble of the East and Bud Grant of the West ran their clubs through final workouts and chalk talks yesterday. Neither planned any changes from the lineups announced earlier in the week.

QUARTERBACKS
Montreal's Sam Etcheverry is expected to start at quarterback for the East, and Frank Tripucka of Saskatchewan Roughriders will run the Western team.

Grant has Edmonton's great Jaska Parker as possible reserve quarterback, but Tripucka goes well. Parker will run from the half line with Gerry James of Winnipeg, by Bailey of B.C. Lions and Leo Lewis of the Bombers.

Speculation that a wet field would hamper the effectiveness of Etcheverry's passing attack was debunked by Trimble, who stated that if Sam gets the protection, he can and will pass any team out of the park, wet ball or dry.

Grant claims cold or snowy weather will benefit the West, since the players are used to frozen fields, and flatly predicted a western win.

EAST FAVORED
However although the West romped to a 35-0 win last year and played to a 6-6 tie with the eastern representatives in 1955, oddsmakers have established the East as 5½-point favorites to win their Shrine game.

The game is practically a repeat of the Grey Cup classic. No less than 11 members of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats have been named to the Eastern team and 10 Winnipeg Blue Bombers players will see action for the West.

Trimble is expected to go along with Cookie Gilchrist of Hamilton and Montreal's Pat Abbruzzi at halfback and Dick Shatto of Toronto Argonauts and Gerry McDougall of the Ti-Cats at fullback.

Little Soccer League to Have Champ But Winning Secondary to Learning

At approximately 10.30 this morning, 180 boys of cars and swarm over Windsor Park like locusts in soccer boots.

About three hours later, they will return home with cloth crests for their jackets and a few more additions for their growing fund of soccer lore.

The occasion is the annual wind-up of the Little Soccer League, and the 180 youngsters, many of whom hardly ever saw a soccer ball before this season, will be out to prove that they haven't been wasting their Saturday mornings.

Twelve teams will play off starting at 10.30, in an elimination series that will continue until a league champion is decided.

IMPORTANT LINK
This is the sixth year of operation for the Little Soccer League, an organization that started out as a small, independent, struggling group of soccer coaches and has turned into the first important link of a chain that provides a place for boys to play soccer from the time they are big enough to kick a ball until they are old enough to move on to senior competition.

The transition didn't come easily. It took a lot of work and effort by a small group of interested people, but after six years the league is stronger than ever.

One of the biggest steps, according to league representative John Fairweather, came this season when the Little Soccer League amalgamated with the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association. The resulting organization now has leagues for boys age seven to 21.

"For the past five years," Fairweather reports, "we took in boys seven to 12 in the Little Soccer League. But enthusiasm died in the 10-12 group because the boys were so much bigger they had no real competition."

"Under the new set-up, the Lower Island League takes these boys into their newly-formed Divisions VI and VII, where they play boys their own age. As a result, this group has become one of the most enthusiastic in the league."

FUNDAMENTALS FIRST
In the Little Soccer League end of the operation, the emphasis is placed on teaching fundamentals. A boy of seven has no chance to learn to do things incorrectly, and with proper teaching right from the start, little Johnny what's-his-name may become another Matthews.

A typical Saturday starts at 10 a.m., when players report to their home park. From there they are driven to the park where they will play, and the game gets under way.

Transportation is handled in most cases by the coaches and help given us. Next year we should be better off than this year.

NO TROPHIES
When the championship team is decided today there will be no cups or trophies provided. Extra prizes for winners might promote too much of a "win-or-lose" complex among the players, and that is contrary to the whole idea of the league.

Fairweather explains it in this way: "When they are finished, we give each boy a crest. He can wear it on his jacket, show it to his friends, and get just as much kick out of it as a cup."

There are no set field specifications. Games are usually played over the width of a regulation pitch, as a consideration to young legs. Smaller goals are set up, and rubber balls, slightly smaller than normal, are used.

STRESS TEAM PLAY
Always the main point of any game is team play. Players are taught to pass and play as a unit, not a group of 11 individuals.

Each boy's equipment depends on the individual. The boys are asked to turn out in shorts and soccer boots if possible. If they can't, they play in whatever they wear to the field. The league supplies sweaters, with money donated by the B.C. Soccer Federation.

"It doesn't actually cost too much to run the league," Fairweather reports, "considering the number of players involved. Parks are supplied to us free in co-operation with the Victoria Sports Council."

"Amalgamation has helped a lot, and we are very grateful to the Lower Island League for

Table Tennis Led by Chan; Perfect Record

Gordon Chan is off to a flying start in the Victoria Table Tennis Club this season.

Statistics released last night show that Chan has gone through 30 games without a defeat for an amazing 1,000 "batting average." Brian Hobbs is second with a 22-2 record for a .916 mark, followed by Ray Greenwood, who has won 31 of 38 games for a .815 percentage.

Val Druce, in 13th place on the list, is tops among the women with a 16-14 (.533) record, followed by Nancy Craig at 500 with 11 wins in 22 games.

First 15 players follow:
1. Gordon Chan (10-0) 1.000; 2. Brian Hobbs (22-2) .916; 3. Ray Greenwood (30-0) 1.000; 4. George Clark (15-0) 1.000; 5. Keith Olson (13-0) 1.000; 6. Don Mac (12-0) 1.000; 7. Ray Dawson (10-0) 1.000; 8. Rick Cough (10-0) 1.000; 9. Wally Rowden (14-1) .931; 10. Rick Kelsall (20-1) .952; 11. Martin Woods (18-1) .947; 12. Walter (18-1) .947; 13. Nancy Craig (11-1) .889; 14. Ann Chin (10-3) .769.

Five-ten-eight Russ Tammy will be reduced in size to a couple of inches for the title role in "Tom Thumb." How will the shrinkage be accomplished? Producer George Pal isn't telling.

Charman, Harbord

Two Tories Struggling

By PETER BRUTON

A lively fight for the nomination of a candidate to contest the next provincial election is going on behind the scenes in the Oak Bay Conservative Association.

The two protagonists are Victoria insurance executive Justin V. Harbord and Eric Charman, campaign manager for A. DeB. McPhillips, MP, successful Tory candidate in the last federal election.

'NO RIFT'

Both men last night denied there was a rift in the Oak Bay association, but agreed there was "a lively struggle."

Although there seems little likelihood of a provincial election within three years, the association has decided to hold its nominating convention next March.

The two rivals — loosely termed the young and the old guard — are fighting for the nomination to contest the seat at present held by Liberal P.
A. Gibbs.

SWELLED

Before the Conservatives leapfrogged to power in the federal election last June, the Oak Bay association averaged about a dozen members at each meeting. Now their ranks have been swelled to close to 300, many of whom are "young"

Tories favoring Mr. Charman.

It is reliably reported that the "old guard" resents the younger members trying to take control of the organization.

Mr. Harbord, unsuccessful
Tory candidate in Oak Bay in the last provincial election, is understood to feel he should get the nomination again.

BRIEFLY SOCRD

He told the Colonist last night he had been a Conservative since 1935 except for a brief period in 1953 when he became a Social Creditor to support his close friend Waldo Skilling, who was running as a federal candidate. He switched back to the Tories soon after.

Mr. Charman came to Victoria not quite five years ago from England. He organized

Hungry Hearts Are Everywhere

REV. FRANK S. MORLEY

Expect Great Things But Can't Receive

By REV. FRANK S. MORLEY

I have a critic whose vituperative powers surpass his capacity for argument. He sees nothing good in Christianity and admiration for Voltaire.

Now Voltaire described Shakespeare as "a low savage whose words are an enormous dunghill of abominable balderdash." He called Plato "a madman." Voltaire's views don't seem too important to me. Similarly Calaphas Herod and Pilate are nothing wonderful in Christ.

Daniel tells us of seeing a vision, "but the men who were with me saw not the vision."

Paul had a vision on the Damascus Road but the men with him didn't. This world is full of wonders, but only like Moses see the burning bush at the wayside and realize they are on holy ground. The things we miss seeing are the things we miss being.

"We expect great things with no real power to receive them," said Thomas Kelly.

They Don't Really Live

Most people never truly live. They are mere "existents." They want, but don't realize. They have the gold fever but not the digging principle. How very few people do know who can say from experience, "Delight myself also in the Lord and He shall give thee the desires of thine heart. Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in Him, and He shall bring it to pass."

What we get from life depends upon what we bring to life. One night Nicodemus came to Jesus and was told that his greatest need was not to know, or to have, or to do, but to become. Over and over Jesus emphasized this truth. He told the stories of the stony ground that could not receive the seed and the foolish girl who had no oil in her lamps. "I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot understand them now," He told the disciples.

When Pasture was accused of being "lucky" in his scientific discoveries, he reported, "Chance favors the prepared mind." Great and good things can only be had by people ready to receive them. Everybody who wants something better should listen to God asking him, "What are you doing with what you have?"

Reception depends upon capacity. God is eager to give from His inexhaustible supply, but His giving depends upon our capacity. What we take from a concert or an art gallery depends upon the size of our soul. One man will go to church and come away exulting. "I heard the voice of God this morning!" Another complaining, "What was the preacher talking about?"

There are hungry hearts everywhere. The world is full of disappointed people, frustrated and unhappy. "What have you to live for?" Dr. William Moulton asked 3,000 people. Ninety-four per cent replied that they endured rather than enjoyed the present while they waited for something to turn up. Dr. Guy Means says that the average woman has 78 fears.

Field Marshal Montgomery maintained that preparation was a prerequisite to success. "Sanctify yourselves," Joshua exhorted Israel, "for tomorrow the Lord will do wonders among you." So He will.

Governor Eyes Vice-Presidency

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—Republican Governor Theodore McKelvin of Maryland says he will likely be a candidate for the U.S. vice-presidency in 1960. "I'm 57 now and 1960 will be my last time to run for high office or I'll be out."

Voice of Wesley Still on Air

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The Voice of Wesley Radio here is believed the most unusual radio station in Canada. It is the only station owned and operated by a church; it is financed entirely by good will offerings, radio auctions and home delivery of turkey teas, and it is manned by a volunteer staff.

Today an enthusiastic group of men manage the station, which puts out 1,000 watts. Sunday is the most popular listening day when church services of all denominations are broadcast in turn.

Following the services, the staff of the station, which is located in the Wesley United Church, learn that a certain patient is making good progress in hospital following an operation, or that Uncle Tom of Burin is up and about again. Last year VOWR handled 11,000 hospital reports for outpatients.

Many people in those days listened to the "Voice of Wesley" with crystal sets. Today an enthusiastic group of men manage the station, which puts out 1,000 watts. Sunday is the most popular listening day when church services of all denominations are broadcast in turn.

City Decision

SPCA To Run Pound

Stricter enforcement of the city's pound law appears likely in future.

A draft agreement under which the SPCA would take complete charge of city pound and dog licensing operations calls for payment to the city of $1,500 the first year, $2,000 the second year and $2,500 a year thereafter.

RIGID ENFORCEMENT
City Comptroller Dennis Young explained to finance committee yesterday that the SPCA "feels that some rigid enforcement will result in an increased licensing and therefore bigger returns."

"The committee will recommend that city council approve the agreement, to be effective from Jan. 1."

SAANICH NEXT?
The SPCA already has served Esquimalt in this respect for a year, will serve Oak Bay from Jan. 1, and is negotiating with Saanich, the committee was told.

Carol Services To Be Featured

Christmas carol services will be held by at least two Greater Victoria Churches tomorrow.

At First United Church following the evening service, the congregation will be invited to move to Fellowship Hall, 834 Balmoral to join in the singing of carols.

A choir from the same church will present carols in the candlelight at its 10th annual program of music at this season, at 8:15 p.m., Dec. 18, in the church.

Doreen auxiliary of the Wilkeson Road United Church will hold its annual carol service at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the church.

Program will include carols, choral reading, other musical numbers, and film strips entitled "The Shepherds' Gift" and "Christmas Comes to the Family."

At St. John's Anglican Church it will be "White Gift Sunday" tomorrow.

Sunday school children at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services have been asked to bring gifts wrapped in white and labelled for children in Canada's northlands.

Members of the senior congregation at all services are to bring a gift from their pantry supplies wrapped and labelled for Christmas hampers to be given to the parish needs.

Films will be shown during evening services at two other churches.

At Metropolitan United Church the movies "A Christmas Carol," and "Far From Alone," a temperance picture, will be shown in place of the sermon.

At Centennial United Church the film "Men of the Wilderness," fourth in a series entitled "The Living Christ," will be shown.

Hoffa Shrugs It Off

'Corrupt' Teamsters Ousted by AFL-CIO

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The AFL-CIO today expelled the Teamsters union by a 5-4 vote on charges it is dominated by corrupt influences, principally president James R. Hoffa. The vote on ousting the federation's largest affiliate was 10,438-508 for and 2,266-492 against.

A roll call came after more than three hours of debate and a last-minute appeal from the Teamsters still will be able to operate successfully. Hoffa said he believes the union will be able to operate successfully.

Four other unions face expulsion on corruption charges. They are the Distillery Local 140, the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' union, the United Textile Workers' union, and the International Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers.

The expulsion climaxed test many before the Senate rackets investigating committee linking Hoffa, outgoing Teamster president Dave Beck and other union leaders with misuse of union funds and association with racketeers.

In mid head of the Teamsters, he told reporters. Our plans were never made on the basis of the AFL-CIO. They didn't build us and they won't weaken us.

Hoffa said he believes the union will be able to operate successfully.

Five Killed In Home Fire

ESSEX JUNCTION, V.I. (AP) — Four children and a man were burned to death in a house fire Friday.

The victims were Gordon Johnson, 4, his brother Jackie, 3; Donald Jamison, 2, and his sister Donna, 1, and their grandfather, Louis de Vail.

Five other children escaped the flames, it was reported, but were taken to hospital when the fire broke out in the rural home.

May 24 Group Aids Centenary

The Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce will cooperate with the Centenary Committee in planning its May 24 celebration. The centennial events patterned after the 1858-59 gold rush will be held this week.

Christmas Cake Recipe Compromise

As promised yesterday, here is a good-sized cake, 1 pound less than the recipe in the Colonist and measures which I urge our less experienced cooks to clip and keep in a safe place. I trust it will also prove useful to our many readers who still use recipes from the Old Country, particularly for typical Christmas fare...

Equivalent Weights & Measures

1 pound butter equals 2 cups.
1 ounce butter equals 2 level tablespoons.

1 pound flour, sifted equals 4 cups.

1 pound granulated sugar equals 2 1/2 cups.

1 pound brown sugar equals 3 cups.

1/2 pound seedless raisins equals 1 1/2 cups.

1/2 pound chopped dates equals 2 cups.

1/2 pound chopped nuts equals 1 1/2 cups.

1/2 pound chopped candied peel equals 1 cup.

4 ounces finely chopped suet equals 1 cup.

4 ounces fine, fresh breadcrumbs equals 1 cup.

12 ounces syrup or liquid honey equals 1 cup.

1 pound cranberries equals 4 cups.

Note: It is taken for granted that the foregoing table indicates Canadian standard measuring cups and spoons.

Well, what do you know? A reader has just dropped in for a chat and calmly tells me I need not have gone to all that trouble as every cookery book includes such a table. I beg to differ.

Now it's high time we featured a Christmas cake as it appears many people have not yet made one this year, including myself. But I can't make up my mind whether you would like a rich, dark one or a less expensive, light one. So let's take the easy way out and compromise. You may not get it baked over the weekend but perhaps you'll find time to prepare the ingredients...

CHRISTMAS CAKE

Five cups all-purpose flour;

1 teaspoon baking powder; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1 pound butter;

2 cups fine granulated sugar.

She tells me she is running an uncooked version of it in the Islander shortly so I will not do so in this daily column of mine, unless particularly requested, as there are so many other things to talk about before the great day dawn.

IMPORTANT ANSWERS TO RECENT QUERIES

No, you can't use rolled oats in that recipe I ran for Lace Cookies the other day. It must be old-time oatmeal as stated.

Yes, you can use golden syrup instead of corn syrup if you so prefer but it is slightly sweeter.

You certainly shall have an alternative tested recipe for carrot pudding using suet, which was not an ingredient in the one I featured recently. I'll run it one day next week.

In Nova Scotia, the annual rocking-chair championship was won by an elderly lady who rocked nonstop for 93 hours and eight minutes.

Sometimes mixture tends to curdle and if this happens add a little of the measured flour before adding the next egg.

Combine fruit (which can be varied in any way to suit your taste—some people prefer chopped figs or dates), peel, nuts and lemon rind; sprinkle them with a little of the measured flour. Add dry ingredients gradually to egg mixture, beating between additions. Lastly add lemon juice, fruits and nuts. Bake your chosen cake pans with 2 thicknesses of heavy paper brushing the top layer of paper well with butter or shortening. Fill pans about two thirds full. Bake in slow oven—275 degrees for large cakes, 300 degrees for small ones. Time—about 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 hours depending on size.

It's a good idea to let cakes stand in their tins on cake coolers until cold then store in cellophane or covered tin.

It's a good idea to let cakes stand in their tins on cake coolers until cold then store in cellophane or covered tin.

P.S. Yesterday I was discussing this Christmas cake business with my colleague Muriel Wilson of the Sunday Colonist.

She tells me she is running an uncooked version of it in the Islander shortly so I will not do so in this daily column of mine, unless particularly requested, as there are so many other things to talk about before the great day dawn.

Sometimes mixture tends to curdle and if this happens add a little of the measured flour before adding the next egg.

Combine fruit (which can be varied in any way to suit your taste—some people prefer chopped figs or dates), peel, nuts and lemon rind; sprinkle them with a little of the measured flour. Add dry ingredients gradually to egg mixture, beating between additions. Lastly add lemon juice, fruits and nuts. Bake your chosen cake pans with 2 thicknesses of heavy paper brushing the top layer of paper well with butter or shortening. Fill pans about two thirds full. Bake in slow oven—275 degrees for large cakes, 300 degrees for small ones. Time—about 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 hours depending on size.

Canned Strawberries

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Strawberries are becoming a seasonal delicacy in the winter months. They are available in the form of canned strawberries, which are a convenient and delicious way to enjoy the fruit. The process of canning strawberries involves washing the fruit, removing the stems, and packing them in a syrup or sugar solution. This method preserves the fruit's flavor and texture, making it a popular choice for winter consumption.

It is a good idea to choose high-quality canned strawberries. Look for brands that use natural ingredients and avoid those with added preservatives. The fruit should be fresh and plump, with a vibrant red color.

When using canned strawberries, it is best to drain the syrup and use the fruit as is. This will ensure that you get the most flavor and texture from the fruit.
